FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

“DEATH ON THE 16TH FAIRWAY” SUITS GOLFERS AND MURDER MYSTERY BUFFS TO A TEE

Emmy and ACE Award-Winning Sportscaster Jim Kelly Narrates Unique Murder Mystery Trilogy

MEDIA, PA - October, 2012 – The just-released “Death on the 16th Fairway” entertainment package is sure to interest avid golfers and mystery fans alike.

Based on a three-part story conceived and written by Art Leahy, a devoted golfer, author and playwright, and well-known and highly-respected investment adviser in the Philadelphia area, “Death on the 16th Fairway” is the story of Ryan’s Way Country Club, an exclusive golf, dining and fitness facility.

While the trilogy is fictitious, it is loosely based upon Leahy’s behind-the-scenes experience as a private golf club member, and financial professional.

“Death on the 16th Fairway” is set during a time of financial peril, when the financial markets made a correction after a strong recovery from the dot.com implosion.

“It starts in the Fall of 2007, when a dead body is discovered at Fader’s Bog on hole number 16. It’s the course’s signature hole. ” says Leahy. “The death on the signature hole, during the week of the 50th anniversary, which in the world of golf is devastating, times two.”

The one-of-a-kind trilogy is now available in three formats – an audio drama for downloading, an eBook, and also on CD.

In the audio presentation of Part One “Who is Mr. X?”, Jim Kelly plays the part of narrator/forecaddie, Speedy Greens. Kelly, one of the 15 voices featured in “Who is Mr. X?” introduces each scene and guides the listener around the course of the ever-developing mystery.

“The stories, the sound effects, and the music, combined with the dynamic variety of character voices, bring the mystery to life, and paint a picture for the ears,” says Kelly. “It’s reminiscent of the old CBS

Mystery Theatre spearheaded by my mentor and friend, Dick Brescia. People remember that genre from days gone by. Nobody but us is doing full-length audio dramas like this today.”

Proceeds of “Death on the 16th Fairway” benefit three charities chosen at checkout, including Autism Speaks, Shelter Box Program of Rotary International, and the United Services Organization (USO).

Jim Kelly is available for TV, radio, and print interviews to elaborate on his participation in this unique golf mystery trilogy. He also will discuss current events in the world of professional golf, having just broadcast the U.S. Open, British Open and Ryder Cup on ESPN. He will next head to the Nedbank Golf Challenge at the Gary Player Country Club in Sun City South Africa.
